

Spring Conference
March 1-2, 2013

Battlefields, Boardrooms, and Backyards:
The New Face of National Security Law

Speaker Biographies

Prof. Kenneth Anderson is professor of law, Washington College of Law, American University; visiting fellow of the Hoover Institution and member of its Task Force on National Security and Law; and non-resident senior fellow of the Brookings Institution. He writes on law and policy related to international law/institutions, the laws of war, and national security, and most recently weapons and robotic technologies. His most recent book appeared in 2012 from the Hoover Institution Press, “Living with the UN: American Responsibilities and International Order”; his most recent article, co-authored with Matthew Waxman, “Law and Ethics for Robot Soldiers,” appeared in the latest Policy Review; and he and Benjamin Wittes are co-authoring a book on the “canonical” national security speeches of the Obama administration. He blogs at Volokh Conspiracy and Opinio Juris, serves as Reviews Editor of the Lawfare blog, and is an editorial board member of the Journal of Terrorism and Political Violence.

Prof. William C. Banks is a Board of Advisors Distinguished Professor of Law, Professor of Public Administration and International Affairs, and Director, Institute for National Security and Counterterrorism at Syracuse University. Professor Banks is an internationally recognized authority in national security law, counterterrorism, and constitutional law. Banks has helped set the parameters for the emerging field of national security law since 1987, co-authoring two leading texts in the field: National Security Law and Counterterrorism Law. In 2008, Banks was named the College of Law Board of Advisors Distinguished Professor at Syracuse University, where he has been a member of the faculty for over 30 years. National Security Law was first published in 1990 and is now in its fifth edition. Banks and his co-authors published Counterterrorism Law in 2007 to help define the emerging field of counterterrorism law, and the second edition was published in 2012. Banks is also the author of numerous other books, book chapters and articles including Counterinsurgency Law: New Dimensions in Asymmetric Warfare, Combating Terrorism (with Mitchel Wallerstein and Renee de Nevers), New Battlefields/Old Laws: Critical Debates from the Hague Convention to Asymmetric Warfare, “Legal Sanctuaries and Predator Strikes in the War on Terror,” “Programmatic Surveillance and FISA – Of Needles in Haystacks,” and “Providing ‘Supplemental Security’ – The Insurrection Act and the Military Role in Responding to Domestic Crises.” Since 1998, Banks also has been a Professor of Public Administration in SU’s Maxwell School of Citizenship and Public Affairs. He was named the Laura J. and L. Douglas Meredith Professor for Teaching Excellence in 1998, a College of Law Board of Advisors Professor in 2005, and he became the founding director of the Institute for National Security and Counterterrorism at Syracuse University in 2003. He is also the Editor-in-Chief of the Journal of National Security Law & Policy (JNSL&P).

Hon. Charles A. Blanchard is the General Counsel of the U.S. Department of the Air Force and chief legal officer and chief ethics official for the Air Force in Washington, D.C. In this role, he provides oversight, guidance and direction for legal advice provided by more than 2,600 Department of the Air Force military and civilian lawyers worldwide. Prior to this appointment, Mr. Blanchard was a Partner at the Phoenix, Arizona, office of Perkins Coie Brown & Bain, with a practice that focused on complex commercial litigation, antitrust, state constitutional law and election law. In addition to his career at Perkins Coie, Mr. Blanchard's more than 20-year legal career includes many years of public service, including positions as the chief attorney at two federal government agencies. From 1999 to 2001, he served as General Counsel of the Army, where he acted as the top legal officer to the Department of the Army. From 1997 until 1999, he served as Chief Counsel to the White House Office of National Drug Control Policy during the tenure of Barry McCaffrey as Drug Czar. Mr. Blanchard's other government experience includes two terms as a member of the Arizona State Senate; work as an Associate Independent Counsel in the Office of James C. McKay; and law clerk for D.C. Circuit Judge Harry Edwards as well as U.S. Supreme Court Justice Sandra Day O'Connor. He also served as the Interim Homeland Security Director for Governor Janet Napolitano in 2003. Mr. Blanchard is a 1985 graduate of Harvard Law School, where he graduated first in his class, and the John F. Kennedy School of Government, where he earned a Master of Public Policy degree. He earned a Bachelor of Science degree from Lewis & Clark College in Portland, Oregon, in 1981.

Ms. Catherine Crump is a staff attorney with the American Civil Liberties Union's Speech, Privacy and Technology Project. She litigates issues ranging from challenges to invasive government surveillance, to protection of the right to engage in political protest, to accountability for police officers' use of excessive force. Her current cases include constitutional challenges to the government's assertions that it may legally engage in suspicionless searches of laptops at the international border and track the locations of cell phones without a warrant. Prior to joining the ACLU, Catherine clerked for the Hon. M. Margaret McKeown, a judge on U.S. Court of Appeals for the 9th Circuit. Catherine graduated from Stanford University and Stanford Law School. She is a non-residential fellow with the Stanford Center for Internet and Society, and an adjunct clinical professor at NYU Law School.

Maj. Gen. Charles J. Dunlap, Jr, USAF (Ret.), is a Professor of the Practice and Executive Director of the Center on Law, Ethics and National Security at Duke Law School. He is a retired Air Force major general who received his undergraduate degree from St. Joseph's University (PA), and his law degree from Villanova University. Prior to retiring from the military in June of 2010, General Dunlap was responsible for assisting in the supervision of more than 2,500 military and civilian attorneys worldwide. His 34-year career included tours in both the United Kingdom and Korea, and he deployed for military operations in Africa and the Middle East. Totalling more than 120 publications, his writings address a wide range of topics including various aspects of national security law, airpower, counterinsurgency, cyberpower, civil-military relations, and leadership. A distinguished graduate of the National War College, General Dunlap speaks frequently at professional conferences and at numerous institutions of higher learning.

Prof. Nita A. Farahany is a Professor of Law, Professor of Genome Sciences & Policy, and Professor of Philosophy at Duke University. She is a leading scholar on the ethical, legal, and social implications of biosciences and emerging technologies, particularly those related to neuroscience and behavioral genetics. In 2010, Farahany was appointed by President Obama to the Presidential Commission for the Study of Bioethical Issues, and continues to serve as a member. She also serves as a member of the European Association for Neuroscience and Law, a Board Member of the International Society for Neuroethics, the Chair of the Criminal Justice Section of the American Association of Law Schools, and serves on the editorial board of the American Journal of Bioethics, Neuroscience (AJOB). Farahany received her AB in genetics, cell, and developmental biology at Dartmouth College, a JD and MA from Duke University, as well as a PhD in philosophy. She also holds an ALM in biology from Harvard University. In 2004–2005, Farahany clerked for Judge Judith W. Rogers of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the D.C. Circuit, after which she joined the faculty at Vanderbilt University in both law and philosophy. In 2011, Farahany served as the Leah Kaplan Visiting Professor of Human Rights at Stanford Law School.

Professor Dr. Wolff Heintschel von Heinegg holds the Chair of Public Law, especially Public International law, European Law and Foreign Constitutional Law at the Europa-Universität Viadrina in Frankfurt (Oder), Germany, and currently is the Charles H. Stockton Professor of International Law at the U.S. Naval War College in Newport, Rhode Island, USA. From October 2004 until October 2008 he was the Dean of the Law Faculty of the Europa-Universität. Since October 2008 he has been the Vice-President of that university. Previously, he served as Professor of Public International Law at the University of Augsburg. In the academic year 2003/2004 he was the Charles H. Stockton Professor of International Law at the U.S. Naval War College. He had been a Visiting Professor at the Universities of Kaliningrad (Russia), Almaty (Kazakhstan), Santiago de Cuba (Cuba) and Nice (France). He was the Rapporteur of the International Law Association Committee on Maritime Neutrality and was the Vice-President of the German Society of Military Law and the Law of War. Since 2007 he is a member of the Council of the International Institute of Humanitarian Law in San Remo, Italy. Since May 2012 he is the Vice-President of the International Society for Military Law and the Law of War. Professor Heintschel von Heinegg was among a group of international lawyers and naval experts who produced the San Remo Manual on International Law Applicable to Armed Conflicts at Sea. In 2002 he published the German Navy's Commander's Handbook on the Law of Naval Operations. Professor Heintschel von Heinegg has been a member of several groups of experts working on the current state and progressive development of international humanitarian law, including the Manual on Air and Missile Warfare (2010) and the Manual on the International Law Applicable to Cyber Warfare. He is a widely published author of articles and books on public international law and German constitutional law. For more detailed information see:

<http://www.rewi.euv-frankfurt-o.de/de/lehrstuhl/or/voelkerrecht>.

VADM James W. Houck, USN (Ret.), is a Distinguished Scholar in Residence at the Penn State School of Law and International Affairs, where his teaching and research focus on international law, law of the sea, and national security law. He joined Penn State in 2012 after retiring as a vice admiral in the U.S. Navy and serving as the Judge Advocate General (JAG) of the Navy. As JAG, he served as the principal military legal counsel to the Secretary of the Navy and Chief of Naval Operations and led the 2,300 attorneys, enlisted legal staff, and civilian employees of the worldwide Navy JAG Corps. He also served as the Department of Defense Representative for Ocean Policy Affairs and oversaw the Department of the Navy's military justice system. He is a graduate of the U.S. Naval Academy and became a designated surface warfare officer while serving aboard a destroyer. He is a graduate of the University of Michigan Law School (J.D.), the Georgetown University Law Center (LL.M.), and a member of the Council on Foreign Relations.

Prof. Margaret Hu is a Visiting Assistant Professor at Duke Law. Her research interests include the intersection of immigration policy, national security, and civil rights. She joined the Duke Law faculty in 2010 as a senior lecturing fellow in Duke's Program in Public Law. Hu previously served as senior policy advisor for the White House Initiative on Asian Americans and Pacific Islanders, and also served as special policy counsel in the Office of Special Counsel for Immigration-Related Unfair Employment Practices (OSC), Civil Rights Division, U. S. Department of Justice, in Washington, D.C. As Special Policy Counsel, Hu managed a team of attorneys and investigators in the enforcement of the anti-discrimination provisions of the Immigration and Nationality Act (INA), and was responsible for federal immigration policy review and coordination for OSC. Hu received her B.A. in East Asian Languages and Cultures from the University of Kansas and her J.D. from Duke Law School. She is a Truman Scholar, Foreign Language Area Studies Scholar, and recipient of a Duke Law School Merit Scholarship. She clerked for Judge Rosemary Barkett on U.S. Court of Appeals for the Eleventh Circuit, and subsequently joined the U.S. Department of Justice through Attorney General's Honors Program under Attorney General Janet Reno. Hu has served in various leadership positions, including vice chair, Kansas Commission for National and Community Service, by gubernatorial appointment; Board of Directors, Harry S. Truman Library and Museum; Board of Directors, University of Kansas Memorial Corporation; National Governing Board, National Asian Pacific American Women's Forum; and Dean's Advisory Council, Duke Law School.

CDR James Kraska is Howard S. Levie Chair in International Law at the Naval War College. A Naval officer in the rank of Commander, Kraska has 23 years of legal practice, scholarship and teaching experience in criminal law, environmental law, maritime law, and especially international law. In particular, he is an international expert and consultant on the law of the sea. Kraska has practiced international law and statecraft and with 60 nations on six continents up to the ministerial level, is regularly interviewed by major global media outlets, and has lectured in academic institutions throughout the world. His scholarship appears in numerous journals, including Yale Journal of International Law and Stanford Journal of International Law, and he authored or edited six books, including volumes for Oxford University Press and Cambridge University Press. His most recent work, International Maritime Security Law, is a co-authored treatise forthcoming from Martinus Nijhoff in Spring 2013.

Mr. Tom Malinowski has been Washington Advocacy Director for Human Rights Watch since April 2001, responsible for the organization's overall advocacy effort with the United States government. Prior to joining Human Rights Watch, he was Special Assistant to President Bill Clinton, and Senior Director for Foreign Policy Speechwriting at the National Security Council. From 1994 to 1998, he was a speechwriter for Secretaries of State Christopher and Albright and a member of the State Department Policy Planning Staff. He has also worked for the Ford Foundation and as a legislative aide to U.S. Senator Daniel Patrick Moynihan.

BG Mark Martins, USA, is Chief Prosecutor of the trial system for violations of the law of war established by the Military Commissions Act. Beginning his military career in the infantry, Martins later became a judge advocate and has since served in a variety of legal and non-legal positions. These have included criminal trial counsel, operational lawyer, staff judge advocate, chief of staff, and commander. He has been deployed to zones of armed conflict for more than five years, including service as Chief of Staff of the U.S. Kosovo Force, Staff Judge Advocate for First Armored Division and then Multi-National Force—Iraq, and his recent duties commanding Rule of Law Field Support Teams across eight provinces and twenty-three contested districts in Afghanistan. In 2011, Martins was awarded the Harvard Law School Medal of Freedom.

General James E. Mattis, USMC, serves as Commander, United States Central Command, located in Tampa, FL. Gen. Mattis served as Commander, U.S. Joint Forces Command (USJFCOM), located in Norfolk, Va., from 11/9/2007 to 8/9/2010. The command focuses on supporting current operations while shaping U.S. forces for the future. Gen. Mattis has commanded at multiple levels. As a lieutenant, he served as a rifle and weapons platoon commander in the 3rd Marine Division. As a captain, he commanded a rifle company and a weapons company in the 1st Marine Brigade. As a major, he commanded Recruiting Station Portland. As a lieutenant colonel, he commanded 1st Battalion, 7th Marines, one of Task Force Ripper's assault battalions in Operations Desert Shield and Desert Storm. As a colonel, he commanded 7th Marines (Reinforced). Upon becoming a brigadier general, he commanded first the 1st Marine Expeditionary Brigade and then Task Force 58, during Operation Enduring Freedom in southern Afghanistan. As a major general, he commanded the 1st Marine Division during the initial attack and subsequent stability operations in Iraq during Operation Iraqi Freedom. In his first tour as a lieutenant general, he commanded the Marine Corps Combat Development Command and served as the deputy commandant for combat development. Most recently, he commanded the I Marine Expeditionary Force and served as the commander of U.S. Marine Forces Central Command. From 2007–09, he served as both NATO's Supreme Allied Commander Transformation and commander, USJFCOM. Gen. Mattis, a native of the Pacific Northwest, graduated from Central Washington State University in 1972. He is also a graduate of the Amphibious Warfare School, Marine Corps Command and Staff College, and the National War College.

Mr. Ronald M. Reed is Senior Attorney and Director, National Security Law at Microsoft Corporation. In this capacity he uses his extensive national security law experience to support Microsoft's U.S. Public Sector Sales and Services businesses along with the Microsoft Institute for Advanced Technology in Governments. He provides legal and strategic advice on national security-related issues involving defense and intelligence-related licensing, services and other opportunities. He also works closely with Corporate and Regulatory Affairs, Office of Legal Compliance and others, to ensure compliance and assists in the development and implementation of policy on matters involving national security. Ron retired from the US Air Force in 2008 after serving for 23 years as a Judge Advocate. His culminating assignment on active duty was Chief Legal Counsel to the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff (General Peter Pace, USMC). He served in a number of challenging assignments during his Air Force career including deployment to Saudi Arabia during Desert Storm, nine years of Joint duty both in US Pacific Command and in the Pentagon, and as Senior Military Assistant to the General Counsel of the Department of Defense. Ron received his Bachelor of Science degree in Chemistry from the University of Notre Dame and his Juris Doctor degree from DePaul University. He was the first military attorney to attend the School for Advanced Airpower Studies where he received a Master's degree in Airpower Art and Science.

MG (Dr.) Robert Scales, USA (Ret.) is one of America's best known and most respected authorities on land warfare. He is currently President of Colgen, LP, a consulting firm specializing in issues relating to landpower, wargaming and strategic leadership. Prior to joining the private sector, Dr. Scales served over thirty years in the Army, retiring as a Major General. He commanded two units in Vietnam, winning the Silver Star for action during the battles around Dong Ap Bia (Hamburger Hill) during the summer of 1969. Subsequently, he served in command and staff positions in the United States, Germany, and Korea and ended his military career as Commandant of the United States Army War College. In 1995 he created the Army After Next program which was the Army's first attempt to build a strategic game and operational concept for future land warfare. He has written and lectured on warfare to academic, government, military, and business groups in the United States, Australia, Asia, the Middle East, Europe, and South America. He is the author of two books on military history: Certain Victory, the official account of the Army in the Gulf War, and Firepower in Limited War, a history of the evolution of firepower doctrine since the end of the Korean War. In addition he is an authority on contemporary and future warfare. Concepts and ideas contained in his writings and studies have significantly influenced the course of contemporary modernization and reform within the military. He has written two books on the theory of warfare: Future Warfare, a strategic anthology on America's wars to come, and Yellow Smoke: The Future of Land Warfare for America's Military. He was the only serving officer to have written books subsequently selected for inclusion in the official reading lists of three services; Certain Victory for the Army, Firepower for the Marine Corps, and Yellow Smoke for the Navy. Congressman Ike Skelton has included Yellow Smoke in his National Security Book List sponsored by National Defense University. His latest work, The Iraq War: A Military History, written with Williamson Murray has been reviewed very favorably by the New York Times, Atlantic and Foreign Affairs. He is a frequent consultant with the senior leadership of every service in the Department of Defense as well as many allied militaries. He is senior military analyst for The BBC, National Public Radio, and Fox News Network. He has appeared as a commentator on The History Channel, The Discovery Channel, PBS, TLC, and Star Television. His commentary is carried frequently on all major television outlets in the People's Republic of China. He has written for and been frequently quoted in The New York Post, The Wall Street Journal, The Washington Times, Time Magazine, Newsweek, Roll Call, and virtually every service defense periodical and media network on issues relating to military history and defense policy. He is a graduate of West Point and earned his PhD in history from Duke University.

Professor Michael Schmitt is Professor of International Law and Chairman of the International Law Department at the United States Naval War College. He is also an Honorary Professor of Law at Durham University (UK) and Honorary Fellow at Exeter University's Strategy and Security Institute (UK). A retired USAF Judge Advocate, he was previously Dean of the Marshall Center in Germany. Professor Schmitt has participated in many international expert projects, including, as director, that which produced the Tallinn Manual on the International Law Applicable to Cyber Warfare. His most recent publication, with Professor Wolff Heintschel von Heinegg, is the six volume Library of Essays in International Humanitarian Law.

Hon. Scott L. Silliman is an appellate judge on the United States Court of Military Commission Review as well as being a Professor of the Practice of Law at Duke Law School. He received his undergraduate and law degrees from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. He served for 25 years as an Air Force judge advocate, retiring in the grade of colonel in 1993 when he joined the Duke Law faculty. As the senior attorney for Tactical Air Command during the first Persian Gulf War of 1990–91, and later as Air Combat Command's senior attorney, he has extensive experience in operational and other areas of military law. Incidental to joining Duke's law school faculty, Professor Silliman served as Executive Director of the Center on Law, Ethics and National Security from its inception in 1993 until July of 2011, and now serves as its Director Emeritus. He is a frequent commentator on national and international television and radio news programs on national security issues, and is quoted on a regular basis by print media from around the world.

Mr. Jay B. Stephens is senior vice president, general counsel and secretary of Raytheon Company where he participates in the operational management and strategic planning of the 71,000-employee, $25 billion company that specializes in defense, homeland security and other government markets throughout the world. Stephens provides leadership for the company's legal and regulatory affairs, ethics and compliance programs, and corporate governance activities, and is responsible for corporate staff activities in the areas of real estate, risk management, and safety and environmental quality. Prior to joining Raytheon, Stephens served as Associate Attorney General of the United States, a Presidential appointment that followed Senate confirmation. In that position, he provided leadership and policy oversight for the civil components of the Department of Justice including the Antitrust, Civil, Civil Rights, Environment and Natural Resources, Justice Programs and Tax divisions. Before becoming Associate Attorney General, Stephens was corporate vice president and deputy general counsel for Honeywell International (formerly AlliedSignal). From 1993–1997, Stephens was a partner in the Washington, D.C., office of the law firm of Pillsbury, Madison and Sutro, focusing on complex litigation, regulatory matters and corporate governance issues. In 1988, Stephens was appointed by the President, following Senate confirmation, to serve as the U.S. attorney for the District of Columbia, the nation's largest federal prosecutor's office. From 1986–1988, Stephens served in the White House as Deputy Counsel to President Reagan, where he was responsible for a wide range of legal policy and regulatory issues and for providing counsel and advice to the President and senior White House staff. A magna cum laude and Phi Beta Kappa graduate from Harvard College, Stephens attended Oxford University on a Knox Fellowship, and earned his Juris Doctor degree cum laude from the Harvard Law School.

CAPT Glenn M. Sulmasy is a Captain (O-6) in the United States Coast Guard and Chairman, Department of Humanities, and Professor of Law at the United States Coast Guard Academy, where he teaches international law, constitutional law and national security law. He holds a B.S. from the U. S. Coast Guard Academy, a J.D. from University of Baltimore School of Law, and an LL.M from Berkeley Law School (Boalt Hall), and attended the Harvard Kennedy School, where he served as National Security and Human Rights Fellow at the Carr Center for Human Rights Policy. CAPT Sulmasy has served and advised Congress and the Executive branch throughout the past decade, and has previously taught at the U. S. Naval War College and the Roger Williams University School of Law. He publishes and lectures widely on national security law and constitutional law, is the author of The National Security Court System – A Natural Evolution of Justice in an Age of Terror (Oxford University Press), and is a contributor to National Security Law in the News (Chapter on the Law of the Sea Treaty) (published by the American Bar Association).

Dr. Christopher Swift is an Adjunct Professor of National Security Studies at Georgetown University and a Fellow at the University of Virginia Law School's Center for National Security Law. A practicing attorney, he counsels clients on matters involving arms control, counter-proliferation, counterterrorism, economic sanctions, export controls, and other aspects of international trade and investment law. Dr. Swift previously served in the U.S. Treasury Department's Office of Foreign Assets Control, where he investigated international transactions involving terrorist syndicates, weapons proliferators, and other sanctioned entities. He has also conducted extensive fieldwork on al-Qaeda's relationships with indigenous insurgent groups in conflict zones including Afghanistan, Central Asia, the North Caucasus and, most recently, Yemen. A term member of the Council on Foreign Relations, Dr. Swift holds an A.B. in Government and History from Dartmouth College, a J.D. from Georgetown University, and an M.St. and Ph.D. in Politics and International Studies from the University of Cambridge.

Mr. Chris Taylor is the Founder and CEO of the Novitas Group, LLC, an international professional services firm that creates sustainable solutions to difficult global security, economic, social, and technology challenges. In 2012, he was named as one of “15 to Watch” in the national security industry by GovCon magazine. Chris spent 14 years in the U.S. Marine Corps as an enlisted infantryman and Force Recon Marine. He earned an MBA in 2002 from the College of William & Mary, and an MPA in 2008 from the Harvard Kennedy School. Chris was also the Director of the Harvard Defense & Security Initiative and a member of the Defense Leadership Project at the Center for Public Leadership, where he co-authored, Transforming the National Security Culture. Chris speaks frequently at professional and academic forums and has testified before Congress and the Commission on Wartime Contracting on private sector contributions to national and international security operations. He has appeared on MSNBC and CNN offering commentary on global security challenges. Chris is the former Chairman of the International Stability Operations Association and is a member of Business Executives for National Security. He has attended Harvard University’s Program for Senior Executives in National and International Security and the Aspen Institute’s Executive Seminar and the Justice and Society Seminar. Chris is a member of the Board of Trustees of the American University of Afghanistan, and a member of the Council on Foreign Relations and the Atlantic Council.

Prof. George Walker is Dean’s Research Professor of International Law and Admiralty Law at Wake Forest University. He holds a B.A. from the University of Alabama, an A.M. in history from Duke University, an LL.B. from Vanderbilt University, and an LL.M. from the University of Virginia. A retired line Captain in the Navy Reserve, Professor Walker served in Atlantic Fleet destroyers, 1959–62. In 1992–93 he served as Charles H. Stockton Professor of International Law at the Naval War College. He is a member of the Virginia and North Carolina bars. Most recently he was general editor of Definitions for the Law of the Sea: Terms Not Defined by the 1982 Convention, the work of the International Law Association (American Branch) law of the sea committee. Besides his research publications, he has been active in statutory drafting and the American Law Institute, of which he is a member.

Col. Dawn M.K. Zoldi, USAF, is Chief of Operations Law at Headquarters Air Combat Command (ACC), the Air Force’s primary provider of air combat forces to America’s war fighting commanders, where she acts as chief counsel to the ACC Commander and staff on all international, intelligence and operations law matters. She holds a B.A. and M.A. from the University of Scranton, a J.D. from Villanova University, and is a distinguished graduate of the Air War College. Colonel Zoldi has served in the Judge Advocate General Corps for almost 20 years in various capacities at virtually every echelon of command, has deployed in support of Operations Enduring Freedom and Iraqi Freedom and served a joint tour at Headquarters United States Central Command. She has served as a faculty member at the United States Air Force Academy and an adjunct faculty member at the Air Force Judge Advocate General’s School. The Colonel has authored numerous widely used Air Force publications, including the Air Combat Command Flying Evaluation Board Guide, the Secretary of the Air Force Inspector General’s (IG) Command Directed Investigations Guide, the Judge Advocate Guide to IG Investigations, and the ACC Airborne Domestic Imagery Authorities Matrix.

1/28/2013 9:56 AM